Just the Same.

The girls are planning to get a bee—

They dream of party, ball and show,

And the old folks tell us it won't go!

But the difference is really on more no less Than a little change in the style of dress.

And when nature tells you, you see,

It's just the same as it used to be.

After the storm and shower are o'er,

The old folks tell us it won't go!

And they tell us it won't go!

And they tell us it won't go!

And they tell us it won't go!

And they tell us it won't go!

And they tell us it won't go!

HON. JOSEPH C. BLACKBURN.

His Oration Over the Graves of the Unknown Confederate Dead

at Frederick City, Md.

The occasion that brings us together, and the assemblage by which I am confronted, alike admonish me that the service which your partiality has imposed might well have been committed to one more accustomed to dealing in the ornate, whose life was not given to the handling of the roughness of current politics; but no sense of personal unworthiness nor unfair criticism or misrepresentation, to which my presence or utterances here may subject me, shall suffice to seal my lips when called upon to bear testimony to the many lives and heroic deaths of those who fell in battle with me.

We have come to deck their graves with flowers. It is a custom that has become fixed among our people. It is a beautiful ceremonial, born of woman's tenderness; it was her gentle nature that conceived it. Surely it could have no fitter origin, for it has ever been her mission not only to give to triumph its value, but to redempt of its sorrow and the grave of its gloom. Last at the cross, first at the sepulchre, her patience, endurance, devotion and faith have ever been the safest beacon given for our guidance.

Her hands are fittest for this tender service, and surely there are no tears

so holy as those shed by weeping heartily over the

GRAVE OF VANQUISHED VALOR.

This day we give to our dead;

the frivolous of life are discarded; its care is forgotten as we stand here among the habitations of these silent sleepers.

There is a grandeur in grief.

There is a glory in gloom.

For out of the gloom future brightness is born,

as after the night comes the morning of men.

And the graves of the dead who gave us progress may yet form the foundation of liberty's throne.

And each single work in the war-path of right shall yet be a rock in the temple of right.

These graves are the mute monuments erected by the hand of war.

They tell of scenes of carnage and strife. As I stand here in such a presence, listening to martial music, upon whose soft strains the recollection is floated back to other years and different scenes, gazing into the faces of men who bore their part in that mighty struggle, calling up the familiar forms of others now numbered with the dead, what a sad and melancholy memories come crowding back upon the mind; how easy in imagination to reproduce war's wild carnival, the charging squadron, the wavering line, the hurrying host, the shouting of the victor, the wail of the wounded, the moan of the dying.

Like a fearful panorama, all seen and come to vindicate the cause in which these brave men died, nor to offer apology for the imperishable record they have made. Judgment thereon belongs of right to those who are to follow me; to the pen of impartial history alone the issue must be committed. We do not deny the settlement that was reached nor seek to avoid the verdict that was rendered upon the field of battle—the stern arbitriment of the sword was given against us—nor is there in this broad land to-day one who would seek to assert again by arms the principle for which these lives were given. If the cause in which they died was criminal, when all the passions and prejudices that surround us shall have passed away, posterity should, and will condemn it; if it was just, future ages will so declare. From that tribunal there is no appeal, and to its judgment

WE ARE CONTENT TO NOW.

Science has demonstrated that in the myriad of ages past, no particle of matter was ever lost. In the morals as in the material universe this rule of HARGIS.—Judge Hargis and several other prominent lawyers of Louisville, have made a critical examination of Judge Hargis' license to practice law, and declare that there is no variance or alteration in it, and that the document is dated February 26th, 1866. This may be thought by some to settle the question, and it does on that point, but the main points at issue are entirely lost sight of. One of the charges is, that he mutilated the records by changing the date of the order of Court, admitting him to practice, from August to February. His license may be all right, but until he is admitted to practice law, and sworn in, he gets no credit on the eight years required by the Constitution, to elapse before he is eligible to the office of Circuit Judge. If there has been no mutilation of the record, why has not unmistakable evidence of it been produced? This point can be as easily settled, one way or the other, as the license business, and until it is done, the people are bound to believe that there is something wrong. The majority of the lawyers here, are still of the opinion that there should be a searching investigation, and are far from being satisfied with the publications intended to establish Judge Hargis' innocence. Since last week, the bars of a number of counties have followed the lead of the Lincoln bar, and we hope that such action will be general, and so urgent, that Judge Hargis will dare not shrink from the demands for an investigation.

SENATOR BAYARD, of Delaware, the hardest of hard money Democrats, and Chairman of the Senatorial Finance Committee, has refused to report favorably on the Warner silver bill, which was passed by the House with but slight Democratic opposition, and threatens to resign if the Senate takes the bill from the committee and votes on it without his consent. The Democrats held a caucus, but did not have the backbone to let Bayard go, although such men as Beck, Voorhes, and others, advocated it. The bill is, therefore, laid over till December, and by the opposition of one man the will of the majority is defeated and the measure of relief postponed, delayed. Bayard's action is prompted by a desire to defeat the soft money Democratic ticket in Ohio, and thereby insure the selection of him or some other hard money man as a candidate for the Presidency. It is a notable matter of fact that the elections in Ohio the year previous to the Presidential election, have, for the last twenty-three years, indicated the result of the later, and Bayard knows that if Ewing carries Ohio by a decided majority, the Democratic contest of 1880 will be led by a soft money man, on a platform in accordance with the one recently adopted in Ohio. This bold stroke for personal advancement on the part of Bayard should be earnestly deprecated and he himself be forced to resign at once.

HON. PHIL B. THOMPSON, JR., has offered a bill in Congress to construe the act entitled "An act to indemnify the States for expenses incurred by them in defense of the United States," so as to reimburse the States for all costs, charges and expenses paid by them for all officers and troops appointed, enlisted or prepared by them in pursuance of a call for such troops made under order of the President of the United States, whether they were or were not mustered. A sum sufficient to pay the amounts is appropriated out of any money in the Treasury, not otherwise appropriated, to be paid to the Governor or his authorized agent. Should the bill be passed, Kentucky will come in for a good round sum, in addition to the amount already obtained, to which she is fairly entitled, and then perhaps she will enlarge her Penitentiary.

HENRY CLAY, a little pumpkin-stud lawyer, who occupies the position of Prosecuting Attorney of the city of Louisville, and imagines because he is a lineal descendant of his illustrious namesake that he is alive the common herd, cowardly a reporter of the Post and News, for an exceedingly mild criticism on some of his alleged official crookedness, and strutted off with the air of a bully, imagining that a braver man never lived than he. He has probably changed this opinion of himself now, as we notice he has failed to recent the very severe strictures made on his conduct, editorially, by the Courier-Journal, and Commercial. He has been indicted by the Circuit Court, and should be punished to the full extent of the law.

MRS. S. GILSON will be the member of the Legislature from Lincoln county. Brother Walton will please remark those instructions. [E. Polk Johnson in Post and News.]

The instructions have been issued, and if Mr. Guoch fails to vote for Brother Johnson for Clerk of the House, he will not return to this county after the adjournment of the Legislature.

The eloquent oration delivered by Hon. J. Blackburn over the graves of the unknown Confederate dead at Frederick City, Md., which appears on our first page, will bear a close and careful perusal.

Another Letter from Danville.
The city is filled with festive sounds, and the hospitable home of the city are glowing beneath agreeable lamplight. Joyous music, attractive visitors, elegant costumes, and wondrous displays of country produce, make this point to-day which all else seems tending. On Tuesday evening, after the exercises of the Danville Society, Col. and Mrs. James A. Fisher gave a handsomely entertained to Messrs. W. G. Dunlap and W. S. Elkin. The ladies, dressed in elegant and lovely faces, lent the sunshine of youth and beauty to the brilliant scene. The house was tastefully decorated and the grounds illuminated. To-day the class day exercises will take place at the College. A feature of the program is a musical concert of songs of welcome and farewell, a poem, the physician's duties and other features.

LANCASTER NOTES.—Col. Walton and wife have gone to the Farmers' Convention and the Mammoth Cave. A number of strangers in our city would fill the personal columns. On Tuesday night Mrs. Gray's Concert was given at the Town Hall. On Wednesday evening, Commencement Exercises and Junior Class Reception took place. The writer was unable to be present, as duty called elsewhere. On Friday evening the sun set clear and a soft stillness set in, which proved most favorable for Mr. W. H. Dunlap's Speech Reception. Had it been merely a looker-on instead of one of the chief movers in the affair, I might, perchance, describe the party for the benefit of any who care to read. As it is, I append a description which appeared in the Courier-Journal of Tuesday, and leave the rest to the imagination. SARRIN.

A CONVENTION.—At the recent election for school officers, J. L. J. L. J. E. Vowles and J. F. Clark were elected Trustees for this (Mt. Vernon) district. The Convention proceeded to take the vote. Out of 115 delegates voted, Thos. J. Ballard received 74 and Alex. Lusk, 41. Ballard's majority 33. On motion of Geo. W. McClure, Ballard's nomination was made unanimous. The result seemed to give satisfaction to the Democrats present, and we trust it will be graciously accepted by the Democracy of the two counties. Mr. Ballard has fairly won for himself the nomination. The party case is in his hands, and to itself to see that he is elected. He is a popular and clever gentleman. He has, all his life, been a farmer, and has served one term as a Justice of the Peace, having been elected in a district which was largely Republican. If elected to the office he is now seeking, he will make us an able and efficient member. Mr. Lusk, his competitor for the nomination, was well known to the party, and we feel authorized to say, will cheerfully accept his result, and heartily support the nominee. He is a good man, and a good Democrat, and cannot but be a valuable member.

A CONVENTION.—At the recent election for school officers, J. L. J. L. J. E. Vowles and J. F. Clark were elected Trustees for this (Mt. Vernon) district. The Convention proceeded to take the vote. Out of 115 delegates voted, Thos. J. Ballard received 74 and Alex. Lusk, 41. Ballard's majority 33. On motion of Geo. W. McClure, Ballard's nomination was made unanimous. The result seemed to give satisfaction to the Democrats present, and we trust it will be graciously accepted by the Democracy of the two counties. Mr. Ballard has fairly won for himself the nomination. The party case is in his hands, and to itself to see that he is elected. He is a popular and clever gentleman. He has, all his life, been a farmer, and has served one term as a Justice of the Peace, having been elected in a district which was largely Republican. If elected to the office he is now seeking, he will make us an able and efficient member. Mr. Lusk, his competitor for the nomination, was well known to the party, and we feel authorized to say, will cheerfully accept his result, and heartily support the nominee. He is a good man, and a good Democrat, and cannot but be a valuable member.

WHY IS IT

That there are double as many

CHAMPION MOWERS & REAPERS

Used by Lincoln County farmers then all other harvesters combined?

BECAUSE They are perfect and simple in construction; they are of light draft and make no sore necks; they are the most durable machines made; they will save all the crops that any other machine will and some that others cannot; they never choke no matter how wet or tangled the grass or grain may be, and, in fact, because they are the best.

They are used and endorsed by the following long list of well-known Lincoln County farmers:

Thomas B. Montgomery, John B. Owsley, L. R. Jones, O. J. Crow, John O. Neal, John Montee, H. J. Darr, J. A. Hensley, John M. White, Joe H. Walker, Joe H. Becker, W. T. Tucker, Wm. M. Hall, James Crow, J. L. Dawson, John Bright, Wm. S. Becker, Wm. M. Higgins, John M. Hall, Wm. Gooch, E. B. Hensley, Stephen Pennington, Wm. M. Garrett, Smith Powell, Wm. Kinder, Robert McAllister, G. A. Lackey, James P. Dawson, Sanford Erwin, Timothy Higgins, T. C. Coffey, Geo. M. Givens, Wm. Hubble, L. Cobb, James Helm, John McAllister, James P. Peak, W. C. Hubbard, Chris. Lyons, And Many Others.

WEAREN & EVANS,

Agents for Lincoln County.

We are also Agents for the most popular Hay Rake in the market.

EVERY ONE WARRANTED.

THE THOMAS

Which has been tested and not found wanting by the following named farmers:

J. H. & S. H. SHANKS, J. S. MURPHY, CRAIG LYNN, JAMES F. PEAK, AND OTHERS.

There is no doubt that it is the best Rake in the market.

With the July number, this beautiful and very interesting work commences the sixth annual volume, and both publisher and editor seem determined to spare no effort to render it superior to any similar publication. The 128 pages sparkle with literary and artistic gems of brilliancy; the illustrations number over 100. The opening article, by A. H. T. Turner, is on "The Ten Primitive Persecutions," and should be read by all the Christian families in the land. A thoughtful article, "We Seek the Truth," an impressive one on "The World," a brightly one on "The World," and many others, will well repay the reader. "The World of Forgiveness" is nearly concluded, and the short stories are by popular writers, and very interesting and instructive. Mrs. Weston, Paul H. Hays and others have given bail on Tuesday, and now breathe again the air of Cranberry. A man named Satter, from Boyle, who is understood to be his uncle, went his security for the remaining $1,250, the bond of $1,000 in Rockcastle and $250 in Harlan, having been previously given. Mr. Satter, we learn, extorted a promise from Satter, that he would in the future, should his company, let whiskey alone, and endeavor to make a man of himself, the penalty of his failure being an immediate return to prison. Satter has it in his power to redeem himself in a measure, but whether he will or not, remains to be seen.

A SPECIAL TERM—Of the Garrard Circuit Court, Term for James, for stealing, and Walker Kavanagh (colored), for murder, was held at Lancaster, Tuesday, June 26. James, who is reported, has left the country for his country's good, did not appear, but no forfeiture was taken on his behalf, as it was discovered that, by mistake, it had been taken to the regular term in August. The trial of Kavanagh for killing another negro named Reid, last July, resulted in a verdict of manslaughter, the punishment being fixed at 21 years in the Penitentiary, which is the full extent of the law. John M. Higgins, both the learned Sheriff, took him to Frankfort, yesterday, without a guard. Some Sheriff's would have had at least three.

FRANKLIN INSTITUTE.—It was our good fortune to be present at the Concert given by this school at Lancaster on Tuesday night, and it was well worth the trip for the trip. The school is now in the hands of the late Mrs. J. H. A. S. H. SHANKS, who is reported, has left the country for his country's good, did not appear, but no forfeiture was taken on his behalf, as it was discovered that, by mistake, it had been taken to the regular term in August. The next week came, bright and beautiful, and an agreeable party assembled at the cottage for dinner. Seated, adorned with the rich ornaments and presents, looked more lovely than ever, and the smile that lighted up her countenance, and the sweet words of affection and love that sparkled from her eye, made all joyous, and every thing was a smile. At the table, the party assembled, laden with all the dainties and good things that the culinary arts of friends could ing great mysteries, and who shall say that science knows better than poetry? When it was thundering little Mary sat thinking. What to make of the awful noise she did not know. At last, however, she brightened up and said, "Mamma, I reckon Dodd is pounding on the floor to make the people behave." Of the same kind of philosophy was the reply of the boy who gazed at the stars, and then answered that they were ginnet holes in the floor of heaven to let the glory through.

"Fie! Mollie!" quoth Steuben to Mary: "tis pity we two can't agree." "Fie! Mollie is a good, sir," she answered, "but you'll find you can't mollie for me."

In Switzerland capital punishment was abolished a few years ago. The people recently voted for its re-establishment by a very decided majority. They have found that imprisonment or life does not keep the murderer in check as well as hanging.
